The Christian life is not only a matter of following rules of morality, but a dynamic experience: living in the fallen world, in fellowship with the living God. So in this book I will discuss not only ethics (the normative perspective), but also the culture in which we live (the situational perspective) and the resources of redemption on which we draw daily (the existential perspective).¹ -from the author's preface The Doctrine of the Christian Life (9780875527963) by John M. The relation between the sufficiency of Scripture as the standard of faith and conduct and the problem of the separated life must be summarized as follows: The Christian is required by God to separate from what is sinful. Scripture alone can demonstrate that a given course of conduct is sinful.

The Bible Doctrine of the Separated Life

And not just for the way we think about God; the Trinity should affect the way we live the Christian life. The doctrine of the Trinity... is a practical doctrine. It tells us what God is like, it tells us what to be like, it says something about the kind of God we worship and the way God interacts with us and with the world.
